Many Object To Zoning; Town Meeting Monday

One For, 19 Oppose Zoning

A preview of town meeting debate on re-zoning was heard at the Planning Board hearings Tuesday night.

Not one of the 30 citizens attending the session defended the Board's proposals for up-graded zoning in about two-thirds of the town. And in a poll taken by Chairman Lee Noyes, 19 persons voted against the re-zoning while one was for it.

Town Meeting Agenda

The zoning articles, a gravel pit by-law and a Board of Public Works request for $280,000 for water supply additions will come before the special town meeting next Monday at 7:30 in the Memorial Auditorium.

The appropriation requested by the BPW, it is understood, will (Continued on Page Seven)

Only 3 Houses Among Permits

Permits for new building construction, estimated at $391,000, were issued during August.

Building Inspector Ralph W. Coleman also announced permits, valued at $18,550, for additions and alterations.

The largest single project for which a permit was issued was Phillips Academy's new dormitory. Two new homes, with garages, plus a camp and three garages made up the balance of the new construction. Permits for new houses were issued, to Armand J. (Continued on Page Two)

LAND OWNERS OBJECT — Mrs. Robert MacMackin of Lovejoy rd. told the Planning Board at its hearing Tuesday night that 25 land owners want the Board to withdraw special town meeting articles up-grading residential zones. She said her father, Dr. Ray Youmans of Dascomb rd. and 24 others own 3680 acres in the proposed rural zone of two-acre house lots and all of them object to boosting the zoning requirements. (Leone)

Skunk Doesn't Like Taste Of Own Medicine

Firemen sometimes fight fire with fire.

But who ever heard of giving a skunk a dose of his own medicine? Yet when Milton Cole had tried everything else, last Saturday night, to shoo a wandering skunk out of his store on Main st., a smelly "bug bomb" proved effective.

Seems Milton got a call from the police about 9 Saturday night that quite a crowd was looking through his store window, watching a big skunk methodically prowl up and down the aisles.

From shortly after 9 until 1 a.m., Cole tried to fool that determined animal into thinking he should go out the back door — taking his scent with him. "He'd have put (Continued from Page Four)

*Quotation by Jean J. Rousseau (1712-1778)

GOURMET "STEALS"

BY
BETTY BLAISDELL

Back to school has one big meaning to the chief cook and bottle washer all right . . . full assembly at family meals! No more moods for the dinner hour, either. Six on the line and for me it's six at the table, too, which, by the way, is just about right for many of the recipes that I happily come by.

Mrs. Johnson's delicious carrot pudding could serve eight or 10 she tells me, but there was very little left in my casserole after six appetites had been fed last Monday at dinner. The carrots had been an unexpected present from a generous and gardening neighbor (just freshly dug). Light in color and delicate in flavor even a carrot-hating Eloise would have taken to this crusty-brown "pudding" that finally emerged from the oven.

Four cups of carrots are grated, as you'll see in the recipe that follows, but just a word about the grater; use the one which measures about 3/8 of an inch, which on my four-sided relic is the flip side of the fine one most everyone uses for rind grating and so do I.

Now that that's cleared up, here it is:

CARROT PUDDING

(Mrs. Harold A. Johnson)

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 tsp. salt
1 Tbl. sugar
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
2 eggs, well beaten
1/2 cup melted butter
2 cups homogenized milk
4 cups grated carrots
Sift the first four dry ingredients together; combine the well beaten eggs, butter and milk and add alternately to the dry ingredients. Add grated carrots last, turning over until evenly mixed. Bake in greased casserole 1 hour in a 350 degree oven.

CRINKLY MOLASSES COOKIES

(also from Mrs. Johnson)

This is a wonderful school-lunch box cookie which stays crunchy until eaten.

3/4 cup shortening (she uses part butter and part margarine)
1 cup lt. brown sugar
1 egg, unbeaten
1/4 cup Grandmother's molasses
2 - 1/4 cups all purpose flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. ground cloves
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. ginger

Blend the shortening, sugar, egg and molasses; sift dry ingredients and stir into the blended mixture. The batter will be stiff and should be taken up by teaspoonfuls, rolled into balls in the palm of your hand, then dip one side into granulated sugar and place sugar side up on greased baking sheet. Place 2 inches apart and bake in 375 degree oven 12-15 min. Makes 3 to 4 dozen.

FISH PUDDING CASSEROLE

(Mrs. Abbott Batchelder)

Try this some Friday as a change from pan-fried or broiled fish . . . it has been a stand-by in the Batchelder household for about 10 years. It will take to a dousing of lemon juice or white wine, I should imagine, which would be my only variation —

1 lb. fillet haddock, cod or salmon
2 cups water
1/2 bay leaf
1 small white onion, sliced
1 carrot, sliced salt pepper
3 Tbl. butter
3 Tbl. flour
1 cup milk
1 cup buttered bread crumbs
Bring the water to a boil. Add the fish, bay leaf, onion and carrot. Season with salt and pepper. Simmer the fish for about 10 min. then drain, saving the liquid. Flake the fish. Melt the butter in a saucepan, blend in the flour and, when that is smooth, slowly add the milk and then the fish liquid. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Test for seasoning, then simmer for 5 min. Add the fish. Put into buttered casserole and top with buttered crumbs. Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 min. or until lightly browned.

BROWN BETTY (My favorite apple dessert)

Touring some of the county's finest apple orchards will be on the agenda for me next week — along with the same group which made our Strawberry Festival in West Andover a memorable one. However, there's no reason why I can't tell you now how I prepare my best apple dessert. The Macs do nicely because they are juicy and will "mush" slightly which is quite desirable in a pudding (but not a pie). The later Baldwins, I think, make the best pies.

About 8 good-sized apples
About 8-trimmed slices of white bread, cubed

1 cup dark brown sugar
1/8 lb. butter
Cinnamon

Freshly grated nutmeg (go easy)

Fresh lemon juice or a bit of rind

This is a layered casserole job, starting with slices of apples, then bread, then apples, bread and apples again, sugaring, buttering and seasoning as you go along. If the apples are particularly sour, add a bit of granulated sugar also. Add about 1/4 cup of warm water, cover the casserole with a lid or aluminum foil and bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 min. Remove cover and brown. Serve with a hard sauce if you would be elegant.

Certain courses are designed to develop practical skills and hobbies, while others aim to broaden and deepen intellectual interests. They include this year Chapters in Greek Literature by Alston H. Chase; Recreational Swimming; Recreational Exercise for Men by Fred H. Harrison; Elementary Logic by Edmond E. Hammond Jr.; Effective Reading by Roger W. Higgins and Robert P. The Evening Study Program will continue next winter its Andover Film Society, whose showings for the past three years in George Washington Hall have been greeted with increasing interest.

The purpose of the Society is to show some of the best films from various countries, of interest because of their "intrinsic beauty or their role in the development of the moving picture as an art form". Some of the films may be in a foreign language with English captions. They will all be comparable in quality to those shown in the past, such as Shoeshine, Pygmalion, The Ghost Goes West, La Belle et la Bete, Kind Hearts and Coronets. Announcement of the titles selected for the 1958 series will be made at the first showing, which date has not yet been announced.

Richard S. Pieters is chairman of the Board of Directors for this year's Evening Study Program, which includes Headmaster John M. Kemper, Frederick S. Allis Jr., James H. Grew, Joseph R. W.

Dodge, Fred H. Harrison, Peter Q. McKee, Patrick Morgan, Valteau Wilkie, Dudley Fitts and Gordon Bensley.

Registration may be made now and blanks are available in Andover at the Memorial Hall Library. Classes are limited to number.

EMMONS ELECTED COMMITTEE HEAD

to seek their communities' agreement to filing the legislation — with a meeting scheduled before Oct. 30 to decide the issue.

Dr. William V. Emmons, a member of the Andover Board of Selectmen, was named chairman of the coordinating committee of the Merrimack Valley Conference and Wilbur N. O'Brien, retired health agent of Newburyport, was named secretary.

A proposed bill, which could be filed in the State Legislature for consideration next year, was drawn up by Clarence I. Sterling, chief sanitary engineer of the Department of Public Health. It reads:

"Resolved: That the water resources commission in the Department of Natural Resources is hereby authorized and directed to investigate and determine the best method of supplying with water the municipalities in the valley of the Merrimack River.

"Said commission shall make investigations as it may deem necessary of the availability of any source of water supply, including the investigation of the availability of underground water. It shall also investigate the advisability of taking water from some point on the Metropolitan water supply system or the possibility of developing sources of water supply in the State of New Hampshire.

"Said commission may cooperate or combine its activities with any appropriate Federal agency which may have personnel or funds which may be allotted for such an investigation and cooperate with the appropriate resources agency in the State of New Hampshire.

"Said commission may employ engineers, geologists and other experts and assistants and may incur such expenses as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this resolve with such sums as may be appropriated therefor.

"Said commission shall report to the General Court from time to time the results of its investigations with its recommendations if any, with plans showing possible water resource developments for said municipalities together with estimates of cost and drafts of legislation to carry such recommendations into effect with the final report to be filed with the Clerk of the Senate not later than December 1, 1958."

The bill would not mean any appropriation of money by the town but would come out of the commission's funds.

The committee agreed to instruct its secretary to canvass the members as to the best day of the week for meeting and as a result to set the next date.

There was no representative from either Lowell or Chelmsford and it was suggested that the "up-river" communities might be hoping to secure water from a branch of the Metropolitan District Water Commission system coming from Quabbin.

Attending the committee meeting were Town Moderator George Batchelder of Amesbury, representing Edwin M. Bailey, who had been named to the committee but was unable to attend this meeting;
George Lawrence of Groveland,
Michael Flannagan of Lawrence,
Victor Clough of Tewksbury,
James Bowzen of West Newbury,
William B. Duffy of No. Andover,
Joseph Hamilton of Methuen,
Thomas E. Coughlin of Tyngsboro, George Lay of Merrimac, Dr. Em-mons of Andover and Mr. O'Brien of Newburyport.

But the skunk had a trick or two

He hid under a radiator and almost had Cole believing he had

But Cole waited him out, sitting in the dark until the skunk decided he had the store all to himself.
Then the animal decided to go

Then out came the "bug bomb" and the determined skunk found out what it's like to be sprayed with bad-smelling liquid. That did it. Mr. Skunk went out, as silently as he had come in through a rear door, while Cole breathed sighs of relief.

Where he came from and where he went are still mysteries - but everyone is wondering if that skunk will have sympathy on the world, now that he knows what it's like to smell bad.

TOWN MEETING IS MONDAY NIGHT

not come entirely from tax money. Rather, a bond for a substantial portion will be suggested. The money will be sufficient to tie in two test wells and extend a new 16-inch main along Porter rd. to So. Main st., a distance of about one and a quarter miles.

The gravel pit by-law, proposed by the Selectmen, will give that Board authority to control gravel pits in a move to tighten up restrictions on their operation.

The zoning articles generally up-grade residential zones, creating a "rural" district with two-acre house lots that will consume about one-third of the town.

One article would lessen zoning requirements in Shawsheen, including the Wood and Curran estates, where sewage is now available. This area would go back to Zone A under the article.

To Guide Growth

At the special hearing Tuesday night, Planning Board members described the proposed changes to larger lot sizes as an effort to properly guide the growth of the town, not to keep people out as was charged by William Foster, who bitterly opposed the zoning changes.

Noting that they are guided by the consultants, members of the Planning Board said the larger house lots conform to a plan that will allow Andover to grow to slightly over 25,000 persons while keeping municipal costs at a reasonable level for new schools, streets, sewers and water mains.

Opponents strongly opposed "control" of the future in this method, although Planning Board members said consultants had predicted that the town would have more than 39,000 residents if control is not exercised now.

Land Owners Opposed

Mrs. Robert MacMackin, speaking for her father, Dr. Ray Youmans, said 25 land owners, with 3680 acres in the proposed new rural zone, are opposed to the changes. Part of that area, some 1130 acres, is now Zone B and the rest is Zone C, she explained.

Atty. Richard Simmers pointed out that perhaps two-thirds of the land owners affected by the changes were present and objected to the changes. And he called on the Planning Board to consider with considerable weight the opinions of the persons most directly affected by the up-graded zoning.

Planning Board members several times suggested that the Board had no intention of restricting lots just to keep people out of town. They emphasized that orderly, coherent growth must be attained through the type of zoning they have proposed.

In general, the over-all plan calls for the most heavily populated areas to be near the Lawrence and No. Andover lines - areas now well populated or under development - with less density in other sections. This would tend to minimize the number of municipal services needed in areas that will be hard to service with water and sewage, thus keeping municipal costs at a reasonable level.

Plan For Services

Opponents charged that that the plan fosters the idea of separate villages - Shawsheen, Ballardvale, West Andover and the Center of Town, rather than trying to plan towards an integrated community. They also explained that plans should be made to provide necessary services, rather than planning to keep the population down so the services would not be needed as badly.

Could Change Minds

One citizen charged that the hearing could be only a formality because the articles had been prepared and were placed in the warrant before the hearing took place.

Planning Board members pointed out that the Board could always withdraw an article during town meeting. And they said the feelings expressed at the hearings would be considered prior to town meeting and the writing of a report that must be filed with the town clerk before that session.

Although Board members and other town officials saw the possibility that some articles could be changed or withdrawn, many considered this unlikely. The Board met last night, some hours after the Townsman went to press, to consider its report and action on the articles.

Held Party For Miss McCullom

MISS SALLY MCCULLOM

In honor of her future daughter-in-law, who will become the bride of her son, Richard Hudgins on Oct. 13, Mrs. Dean B. Hudgins of North st., W. Andover, Wednesday evening, Sept. 4, gave a miscellaneous shower for Miss Sally McCullom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. McCullom, 9 Henderson ave. Over 40 guests were present and the bride-to-be received many beautiful gifts.

Miss McCullom was graduated from the Lowell General Hospital School of Nursing at graduation exercises held last Sunday, where she had been president of her class for three years. Mr. Hudgins will begin his duty with the U. S. Army in Italy following his marriage and his bride will enter full nursing at the Lowell Hospital.

PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis have returned to their home on Beech cir. after enjoying a three weeks' trip to Idaho Falls, Idaho, where they visited their son, Warren, and his family.

BPW Refuses To Abate Assessment

The Board of Public Works has refused an abatement request resulting from its betterment assessment on Greenwood rd.

G. L. Gallo, through his attorney, John Dondero of Haverhill, wanted an abatement of all $229.33 assessed against his property when a water main was installed.

The lawyer explained that Gallo had water in his house before the new main went in — because the former owner had tied it in to the North st. main. Thus, he reasoned, there could be no benefit to the land from a water main which his client does not need.

However, the Board of Public Works decided to take no action on the request.

Members generally felt that the water line into Gallo's house which is on private land may some day be removed by subsequent owners. When that happens, they said, Gallo will have to use the Greenwood rd. main and thus should be required to pay his share of its cost. There is no legal means to defer payment of the assessment until that time, they stated, so it would be necessary to either abate it entirely, put the assessment on lien, charging four percent interest or leave it as is.

Members David Thompson and Francis Reilly at first said they favored abating the full amount. But Secretary Alex Henderson disagreed, pointing out that the law says even an indirect benefit is reason enough to charge the property owner. Then Chairman Flye suggested that Gallo might some day have to use the Greenwood rd. water main and members agreed that he should pay for that anticipated use at this time.

Earlier in the meeting, Atty. Dondero spoke about portions of the law that give the Board authority to assess in proportion to the benefit to the land. And he urged abatement because, he said, there is no benefit when a home already has water from another town-owned source.

At various points in the discussion, Flye, Thompson and Reilly expressed the opinion that very little benefit actually accrues to Mr. Gallo, unless sometime in the future he needs to enter the water main in front of his house.

But the Board unanimously decided to take no action on the abatement request.

Class Dancing, Assemblies Planned

"Starting with the left foot... slide and step together, step!"... familiar ballroom directions, these, to many Andover boys and girls who will start class-dancing once again at the November Club.

At various points in the discussion, Flye, Thompson and Reilly expressed the opinion that very little benefit a totally new to Mr. Gallo, unless something in the future he needs to enter to water main in front of his house. But the Board unanimously decided to take no action on the abatement request.

TURED IN THE RECENT NEW YORK TOY FAIR - SEE THEM IN ANDOVER TOMORROW!

The heavy black lines on this map are approximately correct in bounding the areas where zoning changes are proposed. Action will be taken on the changes during Monday night's special town meeting. The number in each of the areas corresponds to the number of the article in the warrant that deals with the area. At the left, No. 12 area will become "rural" (two acre lots) from its present Zone C (one-acre lots). Its straight side runs along new Route 28. Next, area No. 7 would change from Zone B (30,000 square feet) to acre lots. Area 6, next across the map, would move from B Zone to two-acre lots. No. 8 is proposed for the acre-lot zone and is now Zone B. Area No. 9 also would go from Zone B to C Zone. Area 10 is a proposed two-acre zone, up from its present one-acre size. The Harold Parker State Forest and some town-owned land situated in this area is not included in the changes. The area marked by numeral 5, at the bottom of the map, would go into two-acre lots from a mixture of A, B and C Zone at present. At top of map, area 4 would be dropped from B to A Zone under the articles. Zone A is the smallest area allowed under the present zoning.

In Our Opinion...

Re-Zoning Is Dangerous Business

Planning Board proposals that will result in two-thirds of the town being zoned for one or two-acre house lots are dangerous to the welfare of the town and its inhabitants. They should be defeated next Monday night by a resounding vote.

We believe that consistent up-grading of residential zones can only mean disaster. For those who ardently hope for industrial expansion, it can mean the end of those dreams; and for those who believe that the town must maintain a healthy residential-economic balance, these proposals appear absurd.

And another thing. Planners of considerable experience have said that too much planning, too much use of zoning as a weapon to control a town, can result in a violent swing of the pendulum against zoning — so that many men and women will vote against all zoning in an effort to stop the planners from bottling the community up tight.

Let's look at the affect this zoning may have on industry.

When a firm settles here, it naturally follows that many of its employees will also locate in the community to be near their work. The industry expects this to happen and often selects a site in a community where its employees will be welcome and be content. Also it selects an area where its employees can afford to live.

We know from state statistics that identical homes in Andover and Methuen vary in price — about $2500 more in Andover than Methuen. It just costs more to live here, period. Now we would add to that expense by increasing the lot size by an acre — more money for the land, more expense for landscaping, more dollars every time a betterment assessment is levied for some municipal service.

One of two things will happen — either houses built on two acres will be smaller and less expensive than would ordinarily seem appropriate — or only men with sizeable salaries will be able to afford to live in the areas.

We will be either laying ourselves open to poor quality cheaper homes on large lots or to excluding all but the top executives whose annual compensation is adequate to meet the demands imposed by the town.

Neither of these conditions is good. The town should not restrict its growth in such a way that only top income-bracket families can afford to live here. Nor should it zone in such a way that men of more moderate means have to build smaller, less expensive homes in order to afford the luxury of two-acre lots.

Certainly, from the industrial standpoint, the two-acre zone would be a dangerous expedient.

Several other factors also appear important when considering larger house lots.

Betterment assessments, for one thing, are becoming more numerous all the time. It now appears that the cost of all water extensions and of any sewer systems will be borne, basically, by the homeowner. Assessments are levied on a frontage-foot basis. Thus, the more frontage you own, the more you pay.

What happens when a man must own 225 feet of frontage? The answer is simple, he gets assessed right out of business unless he happens to have a great deal of money. This is a problem, as well, with the acre lots — where, under current proposals, frontages need not be more than 180 feet.

One particular argument for up-grading residential zones appears, at first blush, to have considerable merit. But when examined, we find that theory may not work out so well.

Proponents claim larger lots will slow down building, allowing the town to catch up with needed improvements in the water and sewer systems.

Sure enough, building will be slowed down. And there ample time to work out a long-range plan for extensions in both service systems.

The failure of this idea comes, however, in the human element at future town meetings.

In so many cases in the past, voters have delayed a long-range plan because there happened to be no immediate problem that demanded prompt attention. There always has been an attitude of putting off the project until it came more or less of a crisis.

We are certain that, once building is slowed down and demands are not so great, there will be a consistent argument against spending money for sewer and water extensions when they obviously are of a limited immediate usefulness. There will be a constant demand to hold down the town expenses, at the expense of these long-range plans — with the inevitable result that water lines and sewer mains will not be extended very far or very rapidly into these areas of huge house lots.

Thus, instead of merely slowing building down until the town can catch up, we will have given advocates of delay a telling argument in favor of not doing the work. So instead of up-graded zoning for a few years until the town services can be made available, we will be zoning on a permanent basis.

These temporary taxes, which go on for years, there is confidence that these zoning changes will be moderated. We firmly believe that the two-acre lot proposals, particularly, must be defeated for the good of the town. And appears that changes proposed in the present B. Zone, Zone C, should also be voted down by the voters. We should call a halt to zoning changes for a while — consistently and repeatedly ask for up-grading year after year, in areas only recently re-zoned.

Authority Asks Elderly To Apply For Special Housing

How many elderly persons want to live in special housing? That question will determine whether Andover plans towards building a housing project or abandons the idea.

A joint meeting between the Selectmen and Housing Authority Monday night resulted in a plan for written applications from elderly persons wishing special housing. Letters should be sent to the Housing Authority.

Elderly persons must have minimum incomes to be eligible for this type of project, it was pointed out.

Members of the Authority told the Selectmen that they have often discussed housing for the elderly, but had felt that too few persons would want to live in the project. However, plans had been tentatively made to put an article in the warrant for the annual town meeting, members stated.

Recently the Selectmen met with a state official who explained the housing program and how the town may erect housing for its aged with the state picking up most of the bills.

Selectman Sidney P. White said he had several older men and women express their desire to live in such quarters, following news stories after that conference. Members of the Housing Authority agreed that newspaper publicity might bring replies from interested parties but suggested that a town-wide canvass may be needed before a definite decision is made.

It was agreed that another meeting will be scheduled late this fall to discuss possible plans for housing. Sites are rapidly disappearing, according to Housing Authority Member Roy Russell, as he urged the group to take some action towards including a site in the article for town meeting.

It was explained that this type of housing should be near the center of town and that it should be on flat ground where it will be easy for the older men and women to walk.

Will Install Officers At Sept. 19 Supper

WOODHEAD — WILSON
Ballard Vale United Church was the scene Saturday, Sept. 7, at four o'clock, of the wedding of Miss Joan Milner Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Milner Wilson, 69 Tewksbury st., Ballardvale and Richard Alan Woodhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woodhead, 74 Edgewood rd., Shrewsbury. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Earl Haywood of Lexington, assisted by the pastor, the Rev. Ralph A. Rosenblad.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had as her attendants her classmate, Miss Thelma Sparks of Ballardvale, maid of honor, and Jean Frances Laffin of Wilmington, cousin of the bride, as junior bridesmaid. Year-Old State Law Causes Bid Foul-Up On Town Garage

When the Board of Public Works rejected all bids on constructing the addition to the town garage on Lewis st. Sept. 3, a new state law was blamed for the action.

Passed in 1956, the law requires separate bids on sub-contracts that exceed $1000. The board had not taken that step, cutting the entire job out to bid and receiving three bids from general contractors. Some of the sub-bids listed by the contractors exceeded the $1000 limit.

Although the BPW members expressed considerable annoyance at having run afoul of a state law that they felt shouldn't apply to such small jobs, it was decided to reject all bids. Secretary Alex Henderson, who has guided the building plans through the bidding stage, said he would not be responsible for new bids, if called for, because the state requirements made it so complicated.

Of the Board members present, only David Thompson voted not to reject the bids. He said he felt that the BPW should go ahead anyway and see what happened. Donald Bassett, superintendent of the water and sewer department, said the state Department of Labor and Industries told him on the telephone that the contract could not be awarded.

Chairman Allen Flye said "I want no part of it" and members Henderson and Francis Reilly joined in voting to reject the bids.

It was explained that the law is designed to protect a sub-contractor from "shopping" by a general contractor. Under the law, the bidders on each sub-contract must be listed, with their quotations, four days before the general bids are to be opened. It was explained that this law prevents a general contractor from using one sub-contractor's price in his bid, then doing business with someone else after the contract is awarded because the other party's price is lower. Usually, in such large projects as a new school, all the general contractors use the low bidder on sub-contracts.

There was no immediate plan for calling for new garage bids, pending a study of the issues.

Bidders were Suburban Household Enterprises, $23,900; Charles Construction Co., $24,225 and the L. C. Cyr Co., $25,500. The voters appropriated $25,000 for the project at the annual town meeting last March.

The ceremony was performed at four o'clock by the Rev. W. Harold Deacon, rector.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Carol Wright, a maid of honor and Susan Ratcliffe of Lawrence as flower girl. Arthur Pringle was his brother's best man and Thomas Ratcliffe and Paul Derby, both of Lawrence, ushered.

The bride was gowned in white tulle over satin with bodice and long sleeves of lace. The dress was fashioned with a Satsuma neckline, trimmed with pearl and iridescents and had a chapel train. Her headpiece was made of pearls and iridescents from which fell a finger tip veil of pure silk. She carried a bouquet of white roses with pink roses in the center and streamers of stephanotis.

The maid of honor wore a similar gown in Nile green with a matching headpiece and veil and carried white and Nile green asters. The flower girl's dress and headpiece were in pale pink and an old-fashioned basket of mixed flowers was carried.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the Yankee Doodle, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to the White Mountains.

Miss Wright is a graduate of Pynchard High School and is presently employed at the Merrimack Valley National Bank. Mr. Pringle was graduated from Edward F. Seales High School in Methuen and is in his sophomore year at Merrimack College.

The couple will reside in Andover for the present.

Bookworm Party

Over 300 young people have been very busy this summer with their special reading project, "Bookworms Go Traveling". For every book read about any country in the world, the reader has been allowed a stamp to paste onto a cardboard suitcase or wallet. As in other years, these Bookworms have a very special party, limited to members, in early September. This year, on Friday, Sept. 13, at 3:45 o'clock, all members of the summer reading club are invited to the Memorial Hall Library to a party program which will include two puppet shows. The ticket of admission will be the reader's suitcase or wallet. If these have been left in the library for safe keeping during the summer, they may be picked up on the day of the party, or before.

Great Books Discussion Group

On Oct. 1, at 7:45 p.m., the Great Books Discussion Group will open for the year at the Memorial Hall Library. Meetings will be every other Tuesday, at the same hour, until late in the following spring. There is a Christmas recess near the holidays, but the plan is for regular meetings and regular attendance, if possible, of all members. Newcomers are cordially invited to enter the group, either as visitors or as members, at any time. This first meeting, however, would be an ideal time for those who are curious about such a reading group, to attend. A special film is to be shown, "The Great Conversation", which will do much to explain the purpose, plan and performance of the Great Book idea.

Reading before the meeting is expected of the members, for this opening night. The subject is "King Henry IV, Part I."

Back To School For Johnny

A display of interest to all parents has been arranged at the Memorial Hall Library. It includes materials, in book and pamphlet form, which will make the "off to school" days easier on child, teacher and parent. All books may be borrowed for home use.

Library Closes For Town Meeting

The Memorial Hall Library will close at 7:30 p.m. for the Special Town meeting on Monday night, Sept. 16. Regular hours are now in effect at the library: open daily Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Library is closed on holidays and Sundays.

Town Departments Refuse Dead Animal Pick-Up Chore

"I've got a dead cat on my front lawn. Will you send someone to get rid of it?"

A whole string of "no" replies to that question were received Monday by a Lowell st. resident, as she sought to have the animal taken away by town departments.

First she called the police — and was told "sorry, that's not our job. Try the Board of Public Works."

The Board of Public Works suggested trying the Board of Health. But no one answered the phone there.

So she tried the M.S.P.C.A. in Methuen, who kindly suggested calling the town officials.

Then she called the Police Department again and was told "We're working on it. Someone should take care of it soon."

After about five hours — while the cat lay in the warm sun, attracting the attention of neighborhood dogs, children and flies — a neighbor helped scoop up the corpse and bury it.

The Lowell st. resident had sought the aid of the TOWNSMAN because she recalled seeing news stories about the responsibility of town departments in handling dead animals — and she wondered if that responsibility had been fixed in any one department. To the best knowledge of this office, it had not, however.

Apparently the cat had been hit on the road and was flung up on the edge of the lawn, where the woman found him in the morning. It was after 3:30 when she called back and reported that it had been disposed of without assistance from town departments.

The woman said the Police Department pointed out that it had no facilities for carrying dead animals, except in the cruisers themselves, which they did not feel was sensible.

The BPW, she reported, pleasantly but firmly said it was not that department's responsibility.

It is recalled that neither department had been willing to take

FINAL DANCE

The final dance of the Youth Groups of the Ballard Vale United Church was held last Saturday evening in the Community Room. The groups have realized over a $100 for the church paint fund. Mrs. Ralph Sharpe and Mrs. George Quesenberry were the chaperons and Roy Sharpe was disc jockey.

on the job when the subject was discussed many months ago. The Board of Health has pointed out that it has no cars or facilities for the work.

The Selectmen had suggested that the animals be picked up by the BPW and there had been some talk about having a special, lined box installed on one truck into which an animal could be put so that the truck would not be contaminated in any way.

Studying Uses Of Well Areas

Town Counsel Vincent Stulgis is studying proposed regulations for the private use of town land around the new wells.

Engineering Consultants Camp, Dresser and McKee have suggested that the Essex Sand and Gravel Co. might properly be allowed to use land around the well on their property, even though it must, by law, come under town ownership.

The state law is designed to prevent contamination of the water supply from sewage or other materials. It requires the town to own land 400-feet in radius from the well.

The suggested regulations, now being studied by the town counsel, relate to operations of the property which might be allowed and mention some items that can't be permitted, such as storing calcium chloride within the area or allowing any great amount of oil to spill onto the property within the well area.

LEAVES ESTATE TO DAUGHTER

According to the will of Mrs. Ella G. Hansen, her daughter, Mrs. Helen G. Lamphier of Malden, was bequeathed $15,500, the estimated value of Mrs. Hansen's total estate. The document was filed in the Registry of Probate in Salem. The will also stated that no provision was made for three sons or their issue.
